Products and Services Offered by Sixth Street Specialty Lending Inc. (TSLX)

Direct Lending Services

One of the primary services offered by Sixth Street Specialty Lending is direct lending. As a business development company (BDC), TSLX provides loans to middle-market companies, often privately owned or backed by private equity sponsors, that are often underserved by traditional lending institutions. These first-lien, second-lien, mezzanine, and unitranche loans usually come with attractive fixed or floating interest rates and are often used for growth financing, acquisitions, or other strategic initiatives.

Equity Investments

Aside from making debt investments, TSLX also occasionally makes equity investments in middle-market companies. While not the primary focus of their business, these equity stakes can provide an additional stream of income and potential upside for TSLX. They invest in preferred and common stock, limited liability company interests, and other types of equity investments.

Advisory Services

TSLX also provides advisory services aimed at managing and monitoring its portfolio companies, and capital structure advisory services. These services include performance monitoring, financial restructuring, strategic planning, and other activities designed to optimise the value of TSLX's investments.

Revenue Streams

Interest Income from Loans - TSLX earns money primarily through the interest payments they receive from the middle-market companies they lend to. The interest rates are either fixed or floating, meaning the income can vary depending on the agreed interest rate and the outstanding principal balance of the loan.

Fees - Apart from the interests, TSLX also earns income from the origination fees, closing fees, amendment fees, prepayment fees, among others associated with their loans.

Capital Gains from Equity Investments - TSLX may also realise capital gains from the sale of its equity investments. When the company makes successful equity investments and later sells those investments for a higher price, the resulting profit is a capital gain.

Financial Prospectus

According to the financial prospectus of TSLX, as of December 31, 2020, their net asset value is approximately $1.333 billion. The company's total investment portfolio is valued at approximately $2.284 billion, primarily composed of debt investments. The weighted average yield on their debt investments is approximately 9.4%.

Annual and Lifetime Earnings, Expenses, Profit

An understanding of Sixth Street Specialty Lending Inc.'s earnings, expenses, and profit requires a detailed examination of their annual reports and consolidated financial statements. Using the 2020 10-K report for TSLX, the company reported total investment income of approximately $253.77 million for the year. The company reported total expenses (including interest and debt financing expenses, management fees, and other general and administrative expenses) of approximately $105.27 million. After accounting for total income and expenses, TSLX reported net investment income of approximately $148.5 million for the year 2020.

Since its inception in 2010, TSLX's lifetime earnings, expenses and profit have grown steadily. The company's 10-year net asset value compound annual growth rate (CAGR) is approximately 4.8% as of 2020, reflecting a consistent increase in profitability over the lifetime of the business.
